

Make your mark in the tram industry.

UKTram Project Manager – London Trams – c. £50,000 + benefits

UKTram is a joint venture company bringing together Transport for London, the Confederation of Passenger Transport (CPT), the PTE group (pteg) and the Light Rapid Transit Forum (LRTF). Our role is to represent Britain's tram industry to government and its agencies, and to conduct research into the issues affecting the development of street-running tramways in the UK.

You will use your project management and influencing skills to the full, as you make a clear and persuasive case for funding provision, and work with industry leaders to define and deliver projects within agreed budgets and timescales. Most of your time will be spent liaising with team leaders and preparing detailed project and programme information for the Department of Transport and other stakeholders. You will also oversee the day-to-day corporate administration of UKTram, arrange board and steering group meetings, and act as the secretary to the steering group.

Ideally you will bring technical knowledge of the UK tram industry or have a rail sector background, and you will certainly be experienced in delivering detailed work programmes and associated research. Highly developed analytical and interpretation skills are paramount, and you will naturally be familiar with making effective decisions to realise project proposals.
